BACKGROUND

Having worked within government departments, non-profit organisations, multinational corporate and listed companies, I believe that talent and leadership development are the keys to the growth and success of business. Through using different tools, methods and psychological knowledge, I use my expertise to translate theories into languages of daily operation and business development to achieve business objectives and personal goals. I also work with youth-age groups to uncover and offer guidance for their Think-Big talent.

I have extensive training and coaching experience with listed companies in Hong Kong and Fortune 500 companies.

A BIT ABOUT ME

I am a coach, facilitator and social artist dedicated to leadership development and coaching. As a seasoned business strategist, my training and facilitation is practical, down to earth and engaging. Building the momentum that will drive business as well as employees or management to the next level through psychology is what I focus on and am passionate about.

MY VALUES

Learn, experience and transform: these elements are key to growth. To prepare for the VUCA world, one has to develop and thrive through transformative learning. I believe experiential training and coaching can help people unleash the power within and work beyond their limits.
