BACKGROUND

My career spans higher education, banking and high-end retail, always utilising technology and corporate collaboration. I worked in the core of the businesses, a puzzle piece to C-Suite leadership and equally connected with frontline and every key department.

With over two decades of international corporate and comedy experience, I use improv as a foundation in life and work. It enables collaboration and supports communication across languages, geography and teams. Improv allows us to see and then use the present resources of ourselves or an organisation.

For the last decade I have focussed on driving internal collaboration, on and offline. I ensure customer-centricity and full circle awareness. Transparency, constant learning and great communication are at the foundation of what make a truly great company. Additionally greening and sustainability are interwoven with employee wellness and good collaboration.
