BACKGROUND

I grew up and went to university in Canada where I trained as a teacher before moving to Hong Kong in 1997 to teach at an international school. Later I worked with a leading creative events company, and started my own event production business. I have since produced a wide range of private and corporate events in Hong Kong specialising in destination events across Asia Pacific.

Having managed multiple projects and vendors in a variety of locations over the years I've learned that I thrive on working with people and creating fun, meaningful experiences that bring people together.

A BIT ABOUT ME

I am an enthusiastic facilitator and educator with a background in teaching and events management. I have mentored and trained teams during a 15-year career in Asia Pacific. I'm organised, creative, and a problem-solver who can respond quickly to unexpected challenges.

MY VALUES

I believe in treating people with respect, listening to people, and trying to understand different points of view. I am fascinated by learning and personal growth and believe that learning by 'experience' is essential at all ages and there is always a creative solution. I believe that communicating and sharing ideas is the best way to understand and learn.
